

YOUNG ROBBERS
MAKE BIG HAULBurn Bridge, Hold Up Train and Get Away With Goods.

Muskogee, Okla., Oct. 29.—Three youthful robbers held up a south-bound Missouri, Kansas and Texas train south of Eufaula today, compelled the engineer to detach the express and baggage cars and run them ahead and then rifled the express safe. Company officials believe the robbers got several thousand dollars.

By setting fire to a trestle near the town of Wirth, the bandits had no trouble in flagging the train to a halt. Although the flames threatened to destroy the trestle before their work was accomplished, the robbers moved deliberately. Covering the engineer and fireman with their revolvers they ordered them from the locomotive cab. J. A. Dolan, the conductor, leaped from a coach, and he was fired upon beside the engine. A porter also fell a victim to his curiosity, and was made to stand beside the conductor.

While one robber held the line of employees, the other two uncoupled the engine, baggage and express car from the coaches. They then forced the trainmen into the cab and ordered the engineer to pull the two cars across the burning bridge. What remained of the structure fell into the water a minute after the cars had passed. The passenger coaches were left standing at the brink of the stream.

Half a mile on the other side of the bridge, the bandits ordered the engineer to stop. The safe in the express car was dynamited and ransacked. Their work completed, the robbers fled to the hills. Express officials fear several thousand dollars was stolen. The alarm was soon given and posses were sent from Crowder and Eufaula. Other posses left an hour later on a special train from McAlester and Muskogee. According to the descriptions given, each of the bandits was less than 25 years old.

TURKEY'S FATE
IN BALANCENazim Pasha Fighting With His Back to Wall—All Communications Cut

London, Oct. 29.—The long awaited battle which will decide the fate of Turkey is now being fought. The army under Nazim Pasha, minister of war and commander-in-chief, is engaged and, according to Constantinople dispatches, the operations are favorable to the Ottomans. Dispatches do not indicate where the chief action is taking place or how the opposing forces compare.

It is Turkey's last chance to retrieve an almost hopeless campaign. Nazim Pasha is fighting with his back to the wall; his communications have been cut and it is impossible for him to get fresh supplies or reinforcements.

Sofia dispatches indicate a continued forward movement of the Bulgarians, but give no details. The Bulgarians are still fighting in the direction of Viza in pursuance of their plan to advance to the extreme east in the direction of Constantinople.

The Greeks also are marching, with victories to their credit, toward Salonica, where a feeling of extreme anxiety is said to prevail, and provisions are running short. The fact that no apparent effort is being made to stem the Greek advance to Salonica is held to indicate that the bulk of Turkey's army there has been transferred to Thrace.

Greeks living in Boston are advised that the latest call to arms includes men who were born from 1882 to 1881.

Late advices from Sofia report that the Bulgarians have abandoned the idea of storming Adrianople, in favor of investment as it is known that the place is short of provisions. This has caused rumors that the Bulgarians have suffered a check near Adrianople. No recent information has been received of the operations around Scutari or other points to the west.

Diplomatic activities continue, in London. The prime minister, Mr. Asquith, had an audience with the King yesterday. No formal action has been taken or is likely to be taken until the result of the great battle is known.

VICTORY FOR GREEKS

King Sends Message About Hot Pursuit of Turks.

Athens, Oct. 29.—The King sent the following message to the premier from Iosani today:

"The left wing of the Greek army today defeated the enemy and pursued them to Nalbankol, capturing the standards of two Turkish battalions after desperate fighting."

"After a three hours' engagement Katorina was occupied Monday morning by the Greek army, which is continuing in pursuit of the enemy. Over one hundred Greeks were wounded in the battle at Nalbankol."

According to reliable information the allies have at the front 165,000 more men than they have heretofore been credited with.

WILL HOLD
SMOKE TALKRepublican Committees Will Hold Joint Meeting on Friday Evening.

The republican ward committees of the different wards of the city are contemplating a joint meeting on Friday evening of this week, inviting to meet with them all the republican candidates for any office in the city, and also all the other republicans in the city who desire to attend. The meeting will be held in the Knights of Pythias hall, at 8 o'clock, and short, spicy five-minute addresses and talks in the nature of smoke talks by local republican orators will be given in an informal manner. It is also planned to serve light refreshments. It is not to be a rally, but merely a meeting of local republicans to perfect a united organization for the work of the coming election.

It is expected that some interesting things will be said on that occasion which will make interesting reading the next day for those who are unable to be present.

ROBINSON—GORMAN.

Pretty Church Wedding at Dover on Tuesday.

The marriage of Miss Kathryn Frances Gorman, for a number of years stenographer for John E. Dimick of this city, to Andrew G. Robinson of Dover, was solemnized at St. Mary's church in Dover on Tuesday morning. Rev. Fr. T. E. Reilly performed the ceremony in the presence of a large assemblage of friends of the contracting parties.

The bride was attractively attired in a gown of pale blue champagne, with white lace trimmings, and wore a hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Frances Gorman of Boston, a cousin of the bride, was very attractively attired in pink. The best man was William Robinson of Dover, a brother of the groom. Miss Catherine McCooey, organist at St. Mary's church, played the usual wedding marches and also rendered a number of organ solos throughout the ceremony. Miss Sadie Grimes and Miss Mary McCooey rendered solos during the nuptials.

Following the wedding the party returned to the home of the bride's parents on Hanson avenue, where a wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson then left by auto for Boston and parts unknown, followed by several autos filled with friends.

HERE YOU ARE, GIRLS.

Chance for Old and Young Maids in the Philippines.

Wonderful opportunities for young women seeking husbands are to be found in the Philippine Islands, according to a letter received by Dr. W. P. Cutler, state food and dairy commissioner of Missouri.

The writer states that there are at least 5000 young men employed by the government in the customs and internal revenue service and other branches and all of them are getting salaries not less than $2000 per year.

The correspondent asks that his name shall not be published, but is willing that it be given to any young women who are desirous of becoming married.

He states that the women in the islands are practically all wedded at the present time, and forwards views of the country.

EARLY-MORNING PRACTICE.

Otis Sussman, manager and trainer of the Maplewood football squad, has developed one of the classic teams in southern New Hampshire. He is one of the finest managers the game has ever produced. He has his boys up and on the field every morning at 5 o'clock going through signal practice and no team has yet got a line on their secret code of signals. The Maplewoods have yet to meet their defeat.

BECKER'S WIFE
HEARS SENTENCEDriver of "Murder Car" Tells Whitman Story of Rosenthal Shooting

New York, October, 30.—Charles Becker was sentenced this morning to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing for the murder of Herman Rosenthal on the morning of July 26, during the week of December 9th.

Mrs. Becker was present to hear her husband's fate pronounced by Justice Goff.

The death house at Sing Sing will be Becker's home beginning not later than Sunday, the state plans. Dist. Atty. Whitman does not want the responsibility of the ex-leutenant's presence in this city when he places the guillotine on trial, and Sheriff Harbinger says he will not delay Becker's removal from the toms.

"The fact that Becker is rather more prominently in the public eye than any other convicted murderer makes no difference to me," said the Sheriff today. "He is a man who has come under my jurisdiction through the channels of justice and will be treated the same as all others."

While State's counsel is said to be willing to wait until Saturday before taking Becker to Sing Sing, Sheriff Harbinger said he would start with his prisoner, Thursday morning.

Exonerates Vallon and Schepps.

Aaron J. Levy, counsel for William Shapiro, who drove the Rosenthal murder car, to and from the Metropoli tonight confirmed the report that Shapiro had confessed and would take the stand against the four gangsters. "Shapiro told Dist. Atty. Whitman that the four men who were his passengers were Rosenthal's murderers," Mr. Levy said Shapiro also implicated Jack Sullivan.

"Did Shapiro implicate Becker?" "Only on hearsay. He said he did not have any personal conversation with Becker about the murder but he told Mr. Whitman of a conversation he overheard among the four accused gangsters, conversation implicating Becker in the crime."

"Did Shapiro implicate Vallon and Schepps?" "He did not," said Mr. Levy. "He exonerated them. He said the gangsters begged and pleaded with him to blame the murder on Vallon and Schepps."

Mr. Levy said neither he nor Shapiro had made any bargain for immunity in return for the confession and promise to testify.

"Shapiro was only the driver of the murder car," said the lawyer. "Driving a car is not murder. Mr. Whitman has never had anything on Shapiro at any time. He will never be tried for any crime at all, much less murder. Hence, there should be no bargain with the state. Shapiro by his confession has simply done his duty, as I have urged him to do right along."

No Terms for Gangmen.

Shapiro was closeted with Dist. Atty. Whitman several hours. For days his counsel Aaron J. Levy, had urged his client to tell all he knew, but Shapiro feared to do so said the lawyer, because he believed he would be killed.

With Shapiro's confession and his testimony on the stand against the murder crew, all in corroboration of what the state already knows of the movements of Rosenthal's alleged slayers, the morning the gambler was killed, Dist. Atty. Whitman believes he will have no trouble convicting the gangsters about to be tried.

It was said today that Charles F. A. Wable, counsel for the four men had a two hour conference with Dist. Atty. Whitman last night in which he failed to make terms with the prosecutor for any of his clients.

"Red Phil" Davidson, slayer of "Big Jack" Zelig, is expected to plead guilty to murder in the second degree or to manslaughter when brought to trial tomorrow morning. Mr. Whitman while assured that Davidson will not force the state to try him, is ready to go on with the case. Davidson's counsel, James W. Osborne, it is understood will insist that his client be allowed to plead to manslaughter, which has twenty years as maximum penalty.

Becker Regains Nerve.

Becker in the toms seemed to have regained his iron nerve yesterday. He said he was ashamed of his lapse into hysteria of the day or two previous and sorry that he had made any statement of his case or claim for a new trial as he had done so against the advice of both Mr. McIntire and Mr. Hart of his counsel.

It has been said that Becker would repeat this story or a part of it in court today when called for sentence.

B. &amp; M. NEEDS MILLIONS.

Statement Yesterday by Vice President Edward G. Buckland.

Boston, Oct. 29.—The Boston & Maine railroad needs $50,000,000 to do its business as it ought to be done, said Edward G. Buckland, vice president of the New York, New Haven &

Hartford railroad, in reply to a question by Chairman Charles A. Prentiss of the interstate commerce commission at its hearing on delay in freight transfers late today.

Chairman Prentiss had asked why the Boston & Maine railroad could not move freight as expeditiously as the Maine Central railroad. William Locke of the traffic department of the Maine Central had rendered a report which showed the limit of delay over his whole system to be two days, as compared with two to nine days on the Boston & Maine.

Vice President Buckland explained in detail that while the Maine Central was a unified system, the Boston & Maine was much complicated, with many short connecting lines and numerous transfer points, all of which tended to delay freight transportation. He said $24,830,000 had been appropriated for the development of the Boston & Maine road since Charles S. Mellen became president, of which over $10,000,000 had been spent, $3,000,000 for terminals and transfer improvements.

Warren C. Kendall, superintendent of transportation of the Boston & Maine road, admitted that freight imports and exports at Worcester had been increased 50 per cent. from 1901 to 1911, while at the same time the working force had been reduced.

Eddie Gillette, Wisconsin's Star
Quarterback, the Sensation of Western Football World

Madison, Wis., Oct. 30.—Western football critics are of the opinion that if Eddie Gillette, the Badgers' star quarterback keeps up his brilliant work he will surely be the selection for the position on the mythical All American eleven. No quarterback in the East or West has performed as well as Wisconsin's signal officer. In the game with Northwestern which the Badgers won by the score of 55 to 0, Gillette was the bright star. His ninety yard run in the last period of the game through the entire purple team was the most brilliant play of the game. Near the close of the first quarter Gillette broke away for a fifty yard run, carrying the ball to Northwestern's twenty yard line. Wisconsin plugged the line and sent Van Riper over left tackle for the first touchdown. Gillette kicked the goal. In the game with Purdue Gillette was the individual star. His most brilliant accomplishment was a sixty five yard run for a touchdown at the opening of the second quarter. Wisconsin made six touchdowns, and Gillette kicked every goal. Wisconsin won 42 to 0.

TONSorial ORDERS.

Students Must Patronize Academy Barbers at Annapolis.

Washington, October, 29.—Word was received here today that the officials of the naval academy at Annapolis had virtually ordered cadets not to patronize the barber shops of that town, either for the purpose of being shaved or having their hair cut. Nothing was known of the order here but it is supposed that the recent death of Midshipman Julian B. Bishop, of New York from blood poisoning as the result of a razor cut on his face sustained in a barber shop, furnished the reason. No complaint yet has been forthcoming from the student body, but the navy department expects to receive heated protests, when the football season ends. The great majority of the students shave themselves, but haircutting offers a different problem.

FLOWERS FOR LIVING.

New York Clergyman Says They Are Useless at Funerals.

New York, Oct. 30.—The Rev. Dr. Mark A. Mathews, moderator of the Presbyterian general assembly, has begun a campaign which aims at the discontinuance of the custom of sending flowers to funerals. In an address here he said:

"My desire is to banish all flowers from funerals. What is the use of blossoms on a coffin? Christianity ought to educate this custom out of the ideas and ideals of Americans. Take the roses and put them not on the coffin, but in the lapel of the coat of the laboring man on his way to work. Send the lilies into the workshop, into the sweatshop, there to brighten lives."

but it was said positively nothing of the sort would be done.

Dist. Atty. Whitman, commenting briefly upon the statements which have come from Becker since conviction, said that he might have told his whole story on the witness stand had he so elected, but that having failed to do that its repetition, at this time when he cannot be cross examined upon it would probably avail nothing in securing a new trial.

EXETER LETTER

John F. Nason aged 82, died at the Cottage hospital early Tuesday morning from apoplexy. He had been an inmate there for about two weeks. He was born in South Berwick Me., January 31, 1831, the son of Benjamin and Mary Hubbard Nason, and had been a resident here for thirty two years following the mechanics trade.

He worked both at the Exeter Manufacturing Company's plant and at the Exeter Machine Works. He is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Edward Smith and Mrs. Woodward Manning, both of Reading, Mass., Mrs. Charles H. Knight of Exeter, and Gertrude Nason, a teacher in Montgomery, Ala.

Mrs. Eunice Perkins, wife of William S. Perkins, died Monday evening at the Cottage hospital where she had been an inmate for the past week. She was born in St. Margaret's Bay, N. S., in 1857, Hubley being her maiden name, and she has been a resident here for the past eighteen years. Besides the widower she is survived by a son, John, of Green, R. I.

A pleasant reception was tendered the Rev. Herbert Loughman, the new pastor of the Congregational church at Kensington, at the church vestry. He was formerly the pastor of the Congregational church at Hartford, Ct., and succeeded the Rev. R. G. H. Shaw who resigned to accept a pastorate at Charlestown, Me.

Edward A. Shute manager of the Peoples Coal Company, dislocated his knee while running for a car last evening, and is compelled to resort to the use of crutches.

John C. Cutler of Hampton was a visitor here Tuesday in the interest of his building on Water street which was gutted by fire last August. It is one of the few wooden structures in the street and at the time of the fire was occupied by Rosetti and March, fruit dealers. Mr. Cutler is negotiating for the sale of the building. It is interestingly connected with the interest of the town.

THROWING PEPPER.

Red Brand Used as a Weapon by Strikers.

Red pepper as a weapon to discourage competition has been adopted by the striking waiters at Washington. A score of strike-breakers have been the victims of the pepper throwers. One man today is in the hospital as the result of being severely beaten by strike pickets. The strikers declare their confidence of winning the strike, adding their conviction on the fact that election night will prove conclusively the impossibility of the hotel managers handling a crowd without experienced men. The managers are equally emphatic that the strikers will not be taken back.

WOMEN TO MARCH.

TURKISH ARMY IN A DANGEROUS POSITION

May Be Surrounded and Cut Off From Capital -- The Balkan State Troops Continue Onward March.

London, Oct. 29.—The plan of campaign of the Balkan allies appear to be working with almost perfect smoothness. This is due, according to military critics, in some extent to the unpreparedness of the Turkish Army. The Armies of Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece and Montenegro are now in possession of a large portion of the Turkish railroad system and also of the wagon roads, while these lines and roads, which they do not actually command they are either astride of or threatening.

Interest in the war still centers largely in the eastern area below Adrianople, where Nazim Pasha, the Turkish Minister of War and commander-in-chief, with four army corps, is holding the line from Tchorlu to Lule Burgas. According to the latest reports, he has been set the task of trying to stem the advance of the victorious Bulgarian troops and he is credited with the statement that he will return the wagon roads, while these lines and roads, which they do not actually command they are either astride of or threatening.

Interest in the war still centers largely in the eastern area below Adrianople, where Nazim Pasha, the Turkish Minister of War and commander-in-chief, with four army corps, is holding the line from Tchorlu to Lule Burgas. According to the latest reports, he has been set the task of trying to stem the advance of the victorious Bulgarian troops and he is credited with the statement that he will return the wagon roads, while these lines and roads, which they do not actually command they are either astride of or threatening.

the destruction of the bridge over the Tchorlu River prevents him from obtaining reinforcements and supplies from Constantinople.

Supplies are his greatest want, for with the breaking down of the Turkish commissariat he is reported to be short of them already.

Should the great turning movement now being attempted by the Bulgarians be successful, Nazim Pasha might be driven to the west towards Salonika, leaving Constantinople at the mercy of the invaders.

THREE ARMIES MOVING ON SALONIKI.

In the meantime, Greek, Serbian and Bulgarian armies are moving upon Saloniki. The Greeks are already within striking distance of the Turkish town of Verria, only 50 miles from Saloniki, on the railroad from Monastir. The possession of Verria by the Greeks would not only threaten Saloniki, but cut off the Turkish Army under Zekki Pasha, which was defeated by the Serbians at Uskup and is now concentrating at Monastir.

The capture of Verria by the Greeks would enable them to effect a junction with the Bulgarian Army coming down from Novorokop and Drama, through the Struma Valley, and concentrating at Serres, and with the Serbians who are advancing upon Veles.

All the passes through the Rhodope Mountains leading to the Saloniki and Adrianople Railway are also in Bulgarian hands.

The official report from Constantinople that the Turkish town of Serres from the Greeks is not credited here.

POWERS ARE ACTIVELY NEGOTIATING.

Active diplomatic negotiations are going on among the Powers. The British minister at Cetinje, Montenegro, in company with the Montenegrin Foreign Minister, visited King Nicholas yesterday at Rieka, and this is regarded as undoubtedly in connection with the conversations held with the ambassadors of the Powers in London by Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister. The diplomats are still hopeful of avoiding any complications between the Powers.

A well-informed correspondent in Vienna telegraphs that Austria does not contemplate any active intervention and that there exists in the Austrian capital a well-founded hope of an improvement in Austro-Serbian relations. If this is so the dangers always expected to arise in Europe from a Balkan war may be avoided.

Replying to a request made by several Bulgarian legations for more information as to the progress of events in the eastern part of the theatre of war Premier Gueschaff replied that no other news than that supplied by the general staff would be communicated.

SAILORS BUSY CHEWING.

Enlisted Men Are Sampling 40 Kinds of Tobacco, to Aid Navy Department in Awarding Contract.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—For the next six weeks 125 enlisted men in the New York Navy Yard will be busy chewing 40 kinds of tobacco, to decide which kind shall be bought for use in the Navy.

Bids were opened here today from 15 dealers, who wish to furnish 300,000 pounds, about a year's supply, for the American Navy. Prices range from $2 to 42 cents for various grades.

The contract may not go to the lowest bidder. Chemical tests will be made and the men's decision will be the ultimate choice. Without knowing what kind they are chewing, the men selected for the test will be questioned from time to time by a board of officers as to how they like various samples. Their taste will be the final court of appeal as to who gets the bid.

DEVELOPING THE GRIP

Simple and at the Same Time Beneficial Exercise.

After you have read that morning paper and wish to rest your brain by a little exercise in which the newspaper may still play an important part, the writer suggests that you adopt the method of a friend in New York City. It is simple and quite ingenious, and is especially helpful on a morning when you do not feel inclined to exert your strength.

Take in each hand a corner of an ordinary sheet of newspaper and crumple it up until the four corners are brought into the palms of your hands, forming paper balls. Avoid assisting in the process by pressing the hands against the body. The result is surprising. Every muscle will be brought into sympathy with the muscles of the forearm in the effort to secure the last corner (to completely hide the sheets in your hands). Your nervous force and blood circulation are thus pleasantly stimulated.

Practise this from on to two minutes beginning slowly and gradually increasing its speed.

When you have succeeded in forming these paper balls you can use them in the same manner as you would use a grip machine; that is grasp them as tightly as you can, and then release the grip without opening the fingers entirely, repeating this alternate action grasping and releasing—about seventy five times a minute. By so doing you will develop a powerful grip. Simple as this paper grip machine seems it is superior in many ways to many of the manufactured devices.

This exercise does not make the hands callous nor does it enlarge or deform the joints. It massages the flesh of the inside of the hands, including the thumb and gives them beautiful outlines.

The gentleman who discovered this novel form of exercise puts it to a practical test in the winter season. He carries these paper balls in his coat pocket and keeps his hands warm by the exercise of grasping them tightly. He has developed such strength in his fingers thereby that he has no difficulty in tearing a corner of a full deck of cards or of lifting with one finger a good sized man by the belt.

There is something decidedly fascinating in the exercise. Try it.

BALLOONS IN INTERNATIONAL RACE LAND

BERLIN, Oct. 29.—Seven of the 30 balloons participating in the international race for the Gordon Bennett cup landed yesterday. The first five descended in Northern Germany. These comprised the American "Million Population" (John Berry), the Italian Labin (Nino Piccolo), the Swiss Helvetia (Lieut. O. Sorg) and Azur (R. C. Mueller), and the Austrian Astarte (Edward C. von Slegmundt). The other two, the Austrian Busley (Caut Franz Mannsbarth) and the Danish Clout (Caut Seidelin) descended near Prague in Bohemia.

The Helvetia, which accomplished the longest flight yet recorded, made a stormy landing 26 miles to the west of Danzig, as the pilot feared to cross the Baltic Sea. The distance from the starting point was 760 kilometers (472 1-4 miles).

Roosevelt on Taft.

It is interesting at the present moment to go back a short distance in the history of American politics and get the opinion of Theodore Roosevelt on William Howard Taft.

This is what President Roosevelt said of Mr. Taft in 1892: "Judge Taft, Governor Taft, who has been the head of the Philippine commission, and who has gone back there—Taft, the most brilliant graduate of his year at Yale, the youngest Yale man upon whom Yale ever conferred the degree of LL.D., a man who, having won high position at the bar, and then served as solicitor-general at Washington, was appointed to the United States bench. He was then asked to sacrifice himself, to give up his position in order to go to the other side of the world to take up an infinitely difficult, an infinitely dangerous problem, and do his best to solve it. He has done his best part—in making the American name a symbol of honor and good faith in the Philippine islands; to govern with justice, and with that firmness, that absence of weakness, which is only another side of justice. He has gone back to do all that because it is his duty as he sees it. We are to be congratulated, we Americans, that we have a fellow American, like Taft."

This was ten years ago and for six years afterwards Mr. Taft continued to grow in the estimation of Mr. Roosevelt. They were very intimately connected and no one had a chance to know this better. It was the good opinion of Theodore Roosevelt that selected Mr. Taft for the presidency, and it was on his judgment that he was elected by the people as president.

Since his occupying of the White House, Mr. Taft has measured up high in the respect of the people. He has proven himself to be a constructive and fearless statesman of the best type, and he has met all the requirements of the situation.

Mr. Taft is the same man today that he was in 1902 and in 1908. He has not changed in any way. If he was entitled to their confidence and high esteem then, he is entitled at the present moment to the continued confidence and trust of the great people whom he has so faithfully and wisely served.

President Taft is from every point of right thinking his own logical and proper successor. No other political leader measures anywhere near him as to breadth of view, knowledge of the situation at home and abroad as it is, and a considerable judgment that insures stability and sound deliberate progress, as does he.—Manchester Mirror.

Secretary of State Knox in a recent interview submits convincing proof that President Taft's firm foreign policy is a real factor in the prevailing prosperity and a strong argument for the president's re-election. He points out that exports have gained $541,311,095 in three years and increase is greater than total value of exports in 1876. "During President Taft's administration," he says, "the influence of this government has prevented or stopped three or four wars. Trade is one of the most potent factors in a nation's influence in foreign lands."

The Columbus, Ohio, State Journal remarks that just as soon as a man starts swearing he stops thinking. Didn't you ever notice it? Well, just notice and see. We don't endeavor to explain it, but it is so. There must be some psychological explanation for it, as, for instance, just at that moment the devil gets into the brain and scrambles it up so it cannot think. It is just like him to do it, for his greatest hold in this world is murky and disheveled thinking.

If the republicans of Portsmouth do their duty on Tuesday next they will see that President Taft and the entire ticket receives the full party vote. No man with a particle of republican blood in his veins can vote against Taft. It is for the best interests of Portsmouth that a good republican majority be given the ticket. Let our people stand back of the navy yard.

"Little Britches" does not believe it would be consistent to remove any of the present efficient state officials. We will venture the prediction that if either the republican or democratic party are successful they will see that there is a new incumbent in the state auditor's chair.

Governor Foss of Massachusetts is working the old "gag" of flaying the railroads a la Bass and Churchill in this state. The people are gradually getting a peep behind the masks of these millionaire fakirs.

The fact that Mayor Badger has seen fit to resort to personalities and to vent his personal spite will not make him any friends. This newspaper has treated this man most generously since he came into office.

Photos copyright, 1912, by American Press Association.

Out of its 250,000 inhabitants Montenegro mobilized 37,000 men between the ages of twenty and fifty-two for war service. There are fifty-three battalions, valiant mountain fighters, which constitute them redoubtable soldiers in the mountains. The upper picture shows Montenegrins using Maxim guns. The other picture shows one of the twenty field guns given to Montenegro by Russia.

Perkins as an Angel

While the subject is well and fresh it would be well for the public to assign Mr. George W. Perkins his true place in the Brotherhood of Angels. It should be a high place. It may be said without irreverence, is he not an arch angel? Has he not for years shown such interest in politics, and such liberality in subscribing to campaign funds to entitle him to unusual distinction?

Only the other chairman Dixon of the progressive national committee in testifying before the Clapp committee, said frankly and gratefully, that in the matter of campaign expenses whenever he got hard up he went to Perkins. When other pocketbooks were frozen up that of Mr. Perkins was open and accessible. Eternal summer reigned there.

And now Mr. Perkins pays himself a tribute. With regard to the campaign of 1908. He says that when-ever treasurer Bliss got hard up application was made to him. And he always responded. Little sums of five and ten thousand dollars were often contributed.

Mark the word little. The contributions of Thomas P. Ryan and August Belmont to the Parker campaign have taken the shine off other records. But little drops of boodle make the mighty election fund, as little drops of water make the mighty ocean. Maybe if Mr. Perkins total was published he might deserve to stand in line with Mr. Ryan and Mr. Belmont as one whose heart and purse are ever at the service of political friends.

But that total necessarily is guess-work. Mr. Perkins kept no accounts. Neither did Mr. Ryan or Mr. Belmont.

AFTER GRIPPE OR PNEUMONIA

the enfeebled system readily accepts any disease. Nature's resistant force is depleted and Scott's Emulsion is needed. Its highly concentrated nourishment is immediately distributed to every organ.

With Scott's Emulsion nature repairs waste, constructs healthy tissue and active, life-sustaining blood.

Nothing equals Scott's Emulsion in cod-liver oil.

Scott & Bowman, Boston, N. J. 12-47

All three in going over these past benefactions deal now in round numbers. Mr. Ryan figures his at four hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Mr. Belmont takes second place with an estimated two hundred and fifty thousand. Mr. Perkins helped treasurer Bliss and chairman Dixon whenever they got hard up.

It is worthy of note that none of these men have ever sought office for himself. Mr. Ryan's name once figured in gossip about a Virginia senatorship, but not at his instigation. Mr. Belmont was mentioned as the probable secretary of the treasury in case of Judge Parker's election, but the public did not take the suggestion seriously. Mr. Perkins is not believed to be office hunting now, but only saying pipe for a pull with a trust commission in case of the success of the progressive party and the carrying out of his trust program.

Altruism? Party pride? Public spirit? Call it what you will. There are the men. There are the sums they have given, they are practical men and the sums are large.—Washington Star.

MR. BRYAN AND THE CABINET.

It is stated that Mr. Bryan's friends at democratic national headquarters deprecate the Star's suggestion of Mr. Bryan for secretary of state. They think it would be better for him as a great party influence to remain in private life. Let him become a sort of unofficial adviser to the Wilson administration, offering his views about both executive matters and legislation, and throwing his full influence in favor of a redemption of the promises embodied in the Baltimore platform.

These men want and expect Mr. Bryan to be the party's candidate for president in 1916. They point to the one-term plank in the platform, and in the mind's eye, see Mr. Wilson, barred by that for renomination, retire in favor of the man who made him.

But, in that calculation, they are taking chances. In the first place Mr. Wilson has not yet accepted in any public declaration that one-term declaration, and in the second place should he do so after election he may be overruled when the time comes by party precedent and expediency. If he makes a success of his task the odds will be heavy in favor of his renomination. The Baltimore platform and his own views will be easily set aside.

It is safe and easy to assume that in case of democratic success next month, Mr. Bryan, whether in office or out, is going to follow the making of the party record for the next four years with extreme solicitude. He will be enabled to feel himself largely responsible for things. He nominated Mr. Wilson as the one fixed star in the democratic firmament for sixteen years. While Mr. Cleveland and his followers were in darkness, and Mr. Wilson himself was without chart or compass, Mr.

Bryan was in full glow, and pointing to the right course. Why should not Mr. Bryan continue to twinkle, like a diamond in the sky?

The office of secretary of state was, in earlier days, a sort of stepping stone to the presidency. Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Van Buren and Buchanan, all made the rifle. Some did not go directly from the lower to the higher place, but all profited in their fortunes by their connections with the state department. Maybe Mr. Bryan might be able to revive the old order of things if it is possible to force on Mr. Wilson and the party the one-term proposition.

The democratic chiefs have not been hatched, but the cocking indicates great confidence in the neighborhood of the straw, and calculations and speculations are going forward briskly.—Washington Star.

HER ENGAGEMENT OUT.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland to Marry Professor Preston of Wells.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 30.—Mrs. Grover Cleveland authorizes the announcement of her engagement to Thomas J. Preston, professor of archaeology and history of arts at Wells college. The date of the marriage is not yet determined, but will be announced later.

Mrs. Cleveland is a graduate of Wells college and has been a trustee of that institution since 1887. Her wedding to President Grover Cleveland, which took place in the executive mansion during his first administration, was one of the notable events in the history of the White House. Her father, Oscar Folsom, was a partner of Mr. Cleveland, who, upon Mr. Folsom's death in 1875, became Frances Folsom's guardian.

After his retirement from the presidency, Mr. Cleveland made his permanent home in Princeton, and Mrs. Cleveland has continued to reside there since the former president died in 1908. Her two daughters, Esther and Marion, and her son, Richard F., are living with her there.

The announcement of the engagement was made last night by President John Grier Hibben of Princeton university, who said:

"Professor Preston is 50 years of age. He is a graduate of Princeton and one whom we hold in very high esteem. As a young man he began his university studies at Columbia, which, however, was interrupted on account of illness. At that time he gave up the idea of completing his education and went into business, in which he made a very rapid and notable success, establishing himself at the head of a very prosperous manufacturing company in Newark, N. J.

"After securing a substantial fortune and feeling keenly that continued business success could not compensate for his abandoned college career, he determined to attain a long desired end which his earlier years had denied him. Although nearing the age of 40, he nevertheless closed his active business career, and went abroad to study for two years at the Sorbonne Paria.

"Returning to America, he came to Princeton for two more years of additional study. On account of the wide range and unusual excellence of his work, both in undergraduate and graduate studies, he took at the same commencement not only the degree of Litt B, but the degree of M. A., as well, a very unique attainment. He was also elected at that time to the Princeton chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa society.

"Professor Preston was exceedingly popular and made many friends while at Princeton. He was subsequently appointed fellow of the American school of Classical Study at Rome, and later won in a competition open to all universities of the United States the fellowship of the Archaeological Institute of America. After pursuing his studies abroad he returned to Princeton and took his degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He was then called to his present professorship of Wells college.

PRACTICAL WAY TO COUNT VOTES

Secretary of State Makes a Valuable Suggestion.

For many reasons more attention has been given to the method of counting the ballots at next week's election than has preceded any election for many years. The cross in the circle by which a vote for candidates for all the offices are indicated by a single mark has been done away with by the legislature. This alone will make the determination of straight ballots more difficult because of the need of examining the squares opposite each name in the party column and the scanning of the other columns to determine that there has been no double voting attempted. Then because of the coming in of the Third Term party, there are more candidates on the whole ballot than ever before which logically means a less than usual number of straight ballots for any party and because the list of candidates by other than the regular parties is incomplete, a less number of straight ballots when those of all parties are aggregated. Because of his position as official recorder, it is conceded that Secretary of State Pearson has had more experience in counting ballots than any other person in the state. He comes nearer to being authority on the subject of the best and most expeditious method of counting ballots than any one else. He has given the following interview on the subject, which will be helpful and of general interest.

"In reply to the inquiry, 'Can the method used in recounting votes, by the Secretary of State be made applicable to a moderator's task on election day? My answer is 'I think so, with a more accurate count, made in less time, and in the face and eyes of everybody.' With more names on the ballot than ever before as a New Hampshire election (120 in Ward 9 of Manchester with the likelihood of an unusual amount of skipping around by the pencil of the voter and with an unprecedented interest in the result, the moderator's duties on November 5, will be more arduous than ever. The elimination of the cross in the circle voting will make the sorting of straight tickets difficult. In former years inspections have disclosed errors, explained as a result of separating ballots into piles some of which were counted more than once and others not counted at all, in the confusing of sorting and re-sorting. In the rare instances where fraud has been indicated, the distribution of the ballots among numerous sorters and counters has resulted in double crossing, erasing, and other alterations, or at least has made such frauds possible.

"Briefly stated, the method as adapted to election day work would be as follows: The moderator makes one pile of all the ballots cast, and this is not separated into parts or scattered in any way. With representatives of opposing parties at his right and left and behind him, he lifts each ballot from the pile so that it can be plainly seen by the officials standing near, and calls the names of the candidates for Presidential electors voted for. Tally is kept by at least two ballot officials and others interested—can keep tabs on the score if so disposed. Checking in blocks of five with the count called by one of the checkers as each five is completed, insures agreement and accuracy. When the votes for Presidential electors have all been called, the count is completed, the state of the vote can be announced at once, and an anxious country can be informed of the result. The vote for Governor can next be ascertained and announced, and so on down through the list including the constitutional amendments. In cases of groups of candidates as county commissioners, supervisors, etc., one handling of the ballot for each group will suffice, and afford a safeguard against calling more votes than there are candidates to be chosen. Tally sheets should be made ready in advance, with the names of the candidates which can be obtained from the specimen ballots, filled in completely, otherwise the start of the counting will be needlessly delayed.

PEOPLE'S OPINIONS

Wants Torchlight Processions.

Editor Herald—I was in hopes our enterprising and bustling Progressive club would arrange just one of the old time torchlight processions. Is it too late now? We have the clubs, for instance the Glimet club, the Skee club, the Spider club and the Veteran Firemen. Only a few days would be required to get the material. Come on, boys, just for old time's sake. VOTER.

Give 'Em More Work.

Editor Herald—Whoever is responsible for the present agitation relative to the local fire department is certainly doing the city a good service. The chemical apparatus, when required for duty, will break down two calls out of three on an average, and the fire horses appear to me to be out of proper condition from apparent lack of sufficient exercise. The fire apparatus, as far as practicable, should be worked every day for the good of the service. OLD VET.

SHELL TESTS

Ram Katahdin to be the Target of Big Guns

Washington, October 28.—With a view of determining finally whether explosive shells are more effective than armor piercing projectiles in disabling a battleship, tests were begun in earnest today at the naval proving grounds at Indian Head, Md. The question long has been an open one, certain experts declaring that an explosive shell which easily could be handled with entire safety would work far more havoc to an enemy than a shell that penetrated the side of the enemy's ship.

Rear Admiral Nathan C. Twining, chief of the bureau of ordnance of the navy department, is opposed to the explosive shell. Although he has reported against it he will be present at the tests, which will include the firing of both types of shells by the monitor Tallahassee with the obsolete ram Katahdin as the target. The experiments will be largely to determine how much explosive gelatine, the most powerful explosive known can be handled in a shell with safety.

There was considerable disappointment in this city when it was learned that Honk Cochran would not be able to speak here on Tuesday evening. He would have been a big attraction for any party.

BOSTON AND MAINE ACQUITTED BY JURY

Were Charged in United States Court With Violation of Federal Act-- Two Yeggmen Indicted.

The Boston & Maine railroad was acquitted before a jury in the United States District Court on Tuesday, of the charge of violation of the federal act forbidding railroad to employ trainmen more than sixteen consecutive hours in any one day, under penalty of a fine of $500 for each man so employed.

There were seven counts against the railroad, five of which were ruled out by the Court and the jury reported a verdict for the defendants on the other two.

The case is the first to be tried in this state under the new federal law and it will be followed by another case against the Grand Trunk Railroad.

The case was called when the court came in on Tuesday forenoon with Judge Edgar Aldrich presiding. A grand jury was first empaneled and then a jury to hear the case against the Boston & Maine railroad, but as District Attorney Holt had work before the grand jury the case was continued until two o'clock.

The allegation against the railroad was that on July 4th 1911, the railroad allowed a freight crew of seven men, an engineer, fireman, a conductor and four brakemen to work more than sixteen consecutive hours contrary to the law. The freight train in question was running over the main line from Boston and Jewett and over the Conway branch.

The witnesses were the members of the train crew and they all testified that the night before the fourth, they were three hours late at Jewett and this delay was caused by the burning of the bridge at Newbury. After they got away from Jewett they were delayed all through the run owing to the intense heat, especially in the middle of the day when records show that it was the hottest day in history of the leather bureau.

The run ordinarily takes ten hours but the heat was so intense that there was a great many delays and with the extra passengers train that were run that day so that it was 9.00 when they arrived at the terminal.

It is brought out that the crew actually worked 16 hours 30 minutes, and the conductor and brakemen got through a half hour earlier than the engineer and fireman and on motion Judge Aldrich dismissed the case against the conductor and brakemen and only the cases of the engineer and fireman went to the jury.

Attorney John W. Kelly counsel for the railroad admitted the facts as presented in the evidence, but maintained that the thirty minutes overtime that the engineer and fireman had put in, was justified. He contended that the extreme heat was something that the railroad could not foresee and it was such that it was beyond the human endurance of the men to make time. Such conditions did not warrant the railroad being convicted of a violation.

The case was given to the jury at 3.45 and they reported before seven o'clock a verdict for the defendant.

The case today will be against the Grand Trunk railroad and it is for a violation of the same act.

The grand jury only had one case to hear that against the yeggmen arrested in Manchester for the break at the Foxstown post office.

They returned a verdict against William Morrison and James Wilson. Both men are at present in the Hillsboro jail and they will be arraigned later.

The members of the petty jury pres-

HEARING of the FREE SPEECH ALLIANCE.

CONCORD, Oct. 29.—When Gov. Robert Bass rises in the Council Chamber and opens the hearing on the petition of the Free Speech Alliance of Manchester, it is expected that standing room only will prevail. The meeting will take up a question that has been making no end of quiet discussion in labor circles irrespective of their political social or industrial affiliations to be permitted to have their say in the public street or in halls which they hired for the purpose, on questions in which they are interested.

Specifically the Free Speech Alliance, as it is called, has preferred charges against Chief of Police Michael J. Healy for stopping several meetings some time ago when the F. W. W. folks planned to talk to the operatives of the local mills. The Alliance has petitioned Gov. Bass demanding to know why their meetings were dispersed, and calling for an explanation of what they term Chief of Police Healy's high-handed action. The petition goes on to state that for this conduct the Chief has shown himself unfit to hold office and asks that he be removed. The appointment of the Chief rests with the Police Commission which is named from the governor's office. Chief of Police Healy has been in power for about 20 years.

As an interesting additional revelation of the tense situation on the question of free speech in Manchester they conducted an outdoor Progressive rally in Depot Square, 10 days ago, was peremptorily stopped by the police. The speaker on that occasion was Miss Alice Carpenter, of New York, head of the national organization, Bureau of the Women Progressives. About the time Miss Carpenter began to speak of the workmen's planks in the Progressive platform Policeman O'Malley stepped up to her automobile and asked to see her permit. Then she replied that the Board of Public Works had told her to go ahead until someone complained. The officer said he must see and both Miss Carpenter and Mrs. Robert Johnston, the local leader of the women Progressives, were threatened with arrest if they attempted to continue the rally. A few days later a petition from Progressive headquarters signed by I. W. N. Bennett, in charge of the Speakers' Bureau and William Saville, national committeeman of the Progressive Party, was sent to the commission for Col. Winston Churchill, the Progressive gubernatorial candidate, to speak on Oct. 26th, at noon, either at Depot Square or at the main entrance to the Amoskeag mill on Canal street. In refusing to grant the request the Board of Public Works, in a reply signed by Mayor Edward C. Smith, said:

"It was the unanimous opinion of the board that as a permit to speak in the public streets has been refused to other parties, it would not be consistent to grant permits at the present time. It was voted to set aside Concord Common for the use of the several parties."

The so-called Free Speech in Manchester, which is being pushed by the Free Speech Alliance, dates back to the time of the first Lawrence strike. A meeting at which William D. Haywood and Miss Pearl McGill were down to speak, had been planned to take place in Polish Hall. When the procession reached the hall it found the entrance guarded by officers and no one was allowed to enter.

Two weeks later another attempt to hold a meeting was made in Elm St. More than 2,000 persons were on hand. The moment the speakers started to talk from their soap-boxes, officers sank them off. Five arrests were made. The crowd then dispersed. The organization of the Free Speech Alliance followed. Though its efforts permission was obtained to hold a meeting on the Common. A crowd of 6,000 turned out to hear the speakers who were allowed to proceed without police interference. The things they had to say were rather mild. After this a number of other fruitless attempts were made to hold meetings and finally a vacant lot was leased and used for speech-making.

CHINA'S PRESIDENT

A sketch of Yuan Shi Kai, president of the Chinese republic says that it is something of a surprise to find in him a straightforwardness almost unknown among Orientals, combined with a capacity for political chess playing sufficiently great to beat any European statesman of today just as easily as Talleyrand could beat those of his generation, says a London letter in the New York Sun.

He is not a very big man physically, but he is thick set, with very determined features, a Chinese bull dog in fact. His wide open eyes, which the questioner closely but never craft-

ly. Yet it is well to understand from the outset that those eyes are seeking both to understand the questions thoroughly and to discover precisely what lies behind them—an art very imperfectly known in Europe, although lawyers think they possess it.

When he has got the meaning of the motive, which he does as rapidly as a dog sniffs up a bone, he answers at once, bluntly and determinedly, and then settling himself waits patiently for the next blow. He can work through a whole carcass of questions without the slightest sign of fatigue—he sits there squarely and finishes you off until the last bone is gone. The thing is immense and fascinating, a new experience in a world of worn out experiences, something to be remembered for many a long day by those who have matched wits against him.

It is a curious fact that Yuan Shi Kai is physically extraordinarily lazy. Like all Orientals he feels not the slightest need for any sort of exercise or fresh air. Since the attempt on his life he has gone out as seldom as possible, and his sedentary life has now gone completely won him that he always goes up stairs in a sedan chair borne by four bearers.

And yet this curious man has a phenomenal appetite—a wolfish appetite. In strong contrast to the rest of the official class in China who are most always delicate and only care for delicacies, Yuan Shi Kai eats like the veriest peasant. From his own agricultural province of Honan, bowls of macaroni, hard baked native bread, called po po, pork and mutton, all are grist to his mill, while such trifles as shark's fins and bearded deer and birds' nest soup means nothing to him. He has twenty six sons and daughters and when the family moves it requires almost a regiment to escort them. Like most strong men he is blunt in his family manners; he does not care a button what people think; he lacks the peculiar decorum which the courtiers fastidiously observe.

Such in rough outline is the outer man who largely controls the future of China, who indeed is the only man big enough for the situation.

EQUIP CRUISER BALTIMORE FOR QUICK SERVICE.

PHILADELPHIA—The United States cruiser Baltimore of Atlantis reserve fleet at the navy yard here, was put into condition to sail at 48 hours' notice on orders from Washington Monday. The crew was augmented to its full strength of 400 officers and men. Capt. J. C. Phelps of the battleship Iowa was detailed to command the Baltimore.

The destination of the vessel is not made known, but rumors at the yard were to the effect that it would be sent to some Mexican port or to the scene of the Turkish disturbances to prevent American interest.

EVENING SCHOOL MUCH NEEDED

The evening school for foreigners, will be continued again this winter and it will be under the auspices of the civic association. The civic association held a meeting on Monday at the home of Mrs. William O. Jenkins on State street. President Miss Martha E. Kimball presided and explained the program mapped out for the winter. The evening school is the most important, and the arrangements for this are being perfected. The civic association have endorsed Mrs. A. O. Benfield for re-election to the school board.

The night school for foreigners is something that should be given every support and the civic association are to be praised for this work. There are in this city a good number of foreigners, some of them who can read and write in their own language but do not talk or write English. They are as a rule very willing to learn. Then there are many who have no education what ever and to these the evening school is a priceless boon.

FEEL PULSE AROUND WORLD

Harvard University Physicians With New Instrument Get "Long Distance" Heart Beats.

Cambridge, Mass.—That it is possible for a physician to note the heart beats of a patient who may be on the other side of the world is the assertion of Dr. Percy E. Brown of the Harvard Medical school. An instrument devised for that purpose has been installed in the Harvard Medical school. Doctor Brown says: "With the proper attachments, the heart beats could be registered around the world. All the patient has to do is to place the hands in warm salt water and the electric current, with the hands the positive and negative poles, is carried by wires to the instrument, which shows the heart beats."

PRAISE FOR FLY CATCHERS

Birds Do Much More Good Than Harm, Says United States Government Aid.

Washington, D. C.—"Fly catchers," the kingbirds, phoebes and other birds that prey on wasps, bees, ants, grasshoppers, caterpillars, flies, bugs and other insects, were given a clean bill of health as far as the farmer is concerned in a report issued by the department of agriculture. After an investigation by Assistant F. E. L. Beal of the biological survey of the diet of seventeen of the thirty-one species of fly catchers, the department announced that the birds do considerably more good than harm and should be protected as allies of the farmer and horticulturist.

Sheridan, Wyo.—His piano fencing him into a small open space in his car of household goods was all that saved J. S. Doyle of McCook, Neb., from being crushed to death when a Burlington train in which he was on his way home crashed into some empty cars north of Sheridan.

One of the seven horses in the car was killed. Doyle was badly bruised and cut, but after his injuries were dressed in the Sheridan hospital he was able to continue his journey to McCook.

Cottolene

makes delicious doughnuts

Cottolene makes delicious doughnuts—free from soggy, grease and indigestion. The reason is that Cottolene contains vegetable oil—not animal fats—heats to a much higher degree than butter or lard, fries so quickly that it forms a crisp, dry crust over the dough and prevents the absorbing of the fat.

Cottolene is decidedly better than butter or lard for all shortening and frying. It is healthier, it is quicker, it is more economical.

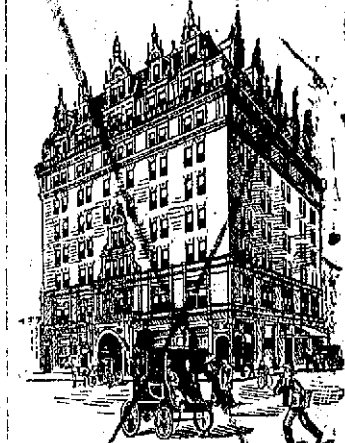

Cottolene costs no more than lard; you use but two-thirds of a pound of Cottolene to do the work of a full pound of butter or lard.

Cottolene is never sold in bulk—always in air-tight tins, which protect it from dirt, dust and odors. It is always uniform and dependable.

RANGER REAL HERO

Fire Fighters Face Great Dangers in Forest.

How Pulaski, by Coolness and Bravery, Prevented the Loss of Thirty-Five of His Crew in Cour d'Alene.

New York.—Prof. Welling, tanned and toughened by his summer's work in the Cour d'Alene national forest reservation, held his eastern visitors spellbound with stories of the fight he had helped to make against the fearful forest fires, says the Youth's Companion. He had gone out, with two others, under government commission, to study the forest and, coming back in August, they had met the fires and spent almost a month in fighting them out of them.

"There are real men among those forest rangers," he went on. "In fact, there is no place for anything that is not genuine up there. The most thrilling story of heroism that I have heard in a long time is the story of Ranger Pulaski. It did not happen in the part of the reservation where I was, but I can vouch for its truth, for I have talked with some of the men who were with him.

"Pulaski had forty men under him, and they had been fighting a big fire for hours. Suddenly the wind rose up and it blew a gale. The fire got beyond them, and it became a question of saving the lives of the men. They were many miles from a railroad or a clearing.

"Pulaski remembered that about a mile from where they were working was an abandoned mine shaft that ran back about forty feet into the hillside. He ordered the men to snatch their blankets from the camp and run for this shaft. Once there, they packed themselves like sardines into the hole. Pulaski placed himself at the opening and stretched a blanket across it.

"In a few minutes the fire overtook them. The blanket at the opening caught and Pulaski jerked it away. Again and again this was done, and when the supply of blankets ran low he held the burning fragments across the mouth of the shaft with his bare hands.

"The suffering of the men from heat and smoke was pitiful. They were fairly maddened by it, and some of them made a wild attempt to push their way out of the shaft. For a while Pulaski held them back by sheer physical strength, for he was an unusually strong man. But he knew that he must soon be overpowered and that the men, in their frenzy, would rush out to certain death. He drew his revolver and told them that he would kill the first man who attempted to break away. The men knew that he meant it, too, and that knowledge brought them back to reason.

"It wasn't more than twenty minutes before the worst of the fire had passed the shaft. When it was safe to crawl out they found that five of the men were dead from suffocation, but the other thirty-five were all right. Pulaski himself was blinded and burned, but his sight was partly restored. He lost five men, to be sure, but with his courage and presence of mind he would have lost them all. I take off my hat to such a man. He is a real hero."

FALSE TEETH LEGAL TENDER

Bartender Accepts Molars for Beer in Lieu of Nickel From Man With Thirst.

Kansas City, Mo.—Into Tony's place at 402 Main street came the man with a permanent thirst. He sidled up to the bar and in a husky whisper announced to Jerry, the red-headed bartender:

"Say, Bo, I got to have a drink and there's no use discussin' any compromise. I'd rather drink than eat and my stomach craves food. Jus' to show you I'm all right, even if I hain't got no money, an' I'm sincere an' all that, here's my false teeth for one bowl of suds man's size an' sh'y th' collar. Do I cash 'em in?"

"You do," replied the bartender, and took the man's upper and lower maxillaries without so much as a "bat of the eye."

"I'll be back and redeem 'em to-night," assured the jag.

"If you don't I'll hit another man to 'em," warned Jerry as he wrapped the molars in a piece of tissue paper and rang them up in the cash register as "five cents."

SLIM JAILBIRD GETS FREE

Little Window Just His Size and Stocking-Rope Make Escape Easy.

Pottsville, Pa.—Stoney Bogden of Shenandoah owes his slim build and a rope of stockings his liberty, which he gained some time between midnight and five o'clock in the morning by squeezing through the small aperture which served as a window in his cell in the Schuylkill county prison. He then dropped to the ground, 12 feet, scaled the lightning rod to the top of the jail building, and with the stocking rope lowered himself to the street on the other side of the jail wall.

The window was so small that it was not thought necessary to provide it with bars. Bogden was serving a two-year sentence for receiving stolen goods, and had served about six months of his time. Thus far no clue to his whereabouts has been obtained.

LIBERTY BRIDE GETS WORK

Mrs. Washburne Gets Employment on Magazine as Part of Pre-Nuptial Arrangement.

Los Angeles, Cal.—In conformity to her part of a prenuptial contract that caused comment from all sections of the country, Mrs. Charles Washburne, until a few days ago Miss Helutz Chandler, obtained a position with the firm by which her husband is employed.

The company publishes a magazine, and Mrs. Washburne will do illustrating for it.

A part of the prenuptial contract, which, as a whole, provided for the greatest personal liberty on the part of husband and wife, specified that each should earn an independent livelihood, and should share the expenses of maintaining a home and of caring for children, should any result from the marriage.

"The account of my mother being prostrated and moaning over the disgrace I have brought upon her are merely trash," said Mrs. Washburne. "I have received several telegrams of congratulation and commendation from my mother since my marriage."

WIDOW'S JOKE A BOOMERANG

Mrs. Evert Is Held in $500 Bail For Sending Post Card to Man Just for Fun.

New York.—Playing a joke on a professional entertainer is an expensive pastime, as Mrs. Mary B. Evert, a widow of East Orange, N. J., learned. United States Commissioner Jones held her in $500 bail for the grand jury on complaint of Malcolm R. Shackleford, a neighbor, to whom she admitted sending a postcard with the picture of a woman seated in a man's lap, and underneath the following inscription:

"You are a great one to keep a date. I waited for you until 9:30. Why don't you keep your engagements?"

"FLORENCE."

When the postcard arrived at the Shackleford home there was trouble. It was discovered that Mrs. Evert's name had first been written on the card in pencil and then erased. The police declared she admitted she sent the card as a "joke."

RICHES COME TO THE POOR

Wife of Itinerant Piano Tuner Gets a Check for $80,000 From Aunt's Estate.

Webster City, Ia.—A check for $80,000 has been received here by Mrs. C. C. Morton, the pretty little wife of an itinerant piano tuner, as part payment on a big legacy left to her by an aunt who recently died in Kentucky.

The estate, said to amount altogether to $3,000, is left entirely to Mrs. Morton, who is only twenty-four years old, while her husband is sixty.

They have been living in a modest boarding house for two weeks while he went about his trade. When Mrs. Morton undertook to deposit her draft in a local bank the officials were doubtful whether to accept it, until investigation proved that the piece of paper was genuine.

KITTEN GIVES AN ALARM

Leads Mother to Where Child Hangs Head Downward on Amusement Pier.

Venice, Cal.—A kitten saved twelve-year-old Olive Henderson, of this place, from probable death.

The child and the kitten had gone for a walk and after a time the kitten returned alone. When it drew the attention of the girl's mother it started away, but returned and renewed its cries when she failed to follow. When it started again the mother followed.

The kitten led the way to the end of an amusement pier, where the child was found hanging head downward from a large spike in a pile. She had fallen from the pier and her clothing had caught on the spike. She was rescued barely conscious.

NEW SEA SERPENT IN VENICE

Looks Like a Shark and Has Face Like Gila Monster, and Every-body Sober.

Venice, Cal.—One of the queerest deep-sea creatures ever seen here was brought in by a fisherman. It is five feet in length, black and green mottled, with a tail like a shark. It has a dorsal fin and four feet shaped like those of a parrot. Its mouth resembles that of a Gila monster, while its head is a replica on a large scale of that of a California horned toad.

An amusing discovery of unhuman likeness was related by a friend of Sir Henry M. Stanley. When Stanley visited the Karaguz, an African tribe rather above the average in intelligence, he had with him a fine bulldog, whose purgy and pug-nosed countenance possessed all the unlovely characteristics of the breed.

The Karaguz bestowed much attention upon this beast, and their chief, before parting with the white man, ingeniously pointed out an odd fact which he had observed. The Karaguz men, flat-faced, snub-nosed and thick-lipped, looked, he thought much like the English dog; while the half-wild Karaguz dogs, clean-cut, keen-eyed and long-nosed, looked much more than their masters did like the Englishmen.

Whether Stanley, who had every right to think well of his own personal appearance, relished this comparison or not, he could not do other wise than take it in good part; and he had sense of humor enough to pass it on for the amusement of others after he got home.

Rising Young Man.

"Is this Mr. Nibstreet," asked the young man.

"Yes; all down," replied the wealthy proprietor of Nibstreet's United Stores. "You said in your letter that you wanted work."

"I did, sir."

"There were several other applicants for the place, but I don't mind telling you that I was struck by your name, so I gave you the preference. Nibstreet is not a common name, you know, and when I saw your signature, Nibstreet Jones, I said to myself I'd give you a trial."

"Thank you, sir; you are very kind. I hope I shall never disappoint you."

"Your parents christened you Nibstreet, I suppose?"

"Well, not exactly, sir. The fact is that my first name was Nelson until this week. But I never liked it, sir; really I didn't. The fellows called me Neil, and I have always wished for something manlier. But I never found a name that suited me right down to the ground until I saw your ad in the paper this week. 'Nibstreet,' said I, 'that's the very name I've been looking for all these years.' So I changed on the spot, sir, and Nibstreet I expect to remain the rest of my life, whether you give me the job or not."—Newark News.

The Quality of Mercy.

Mayor Gaylor of New York had befriended a poor "down-and-out," and for this a lawyer took him to task.

"The fellow's no good," the lawyer said. "He has only got what was coming to him. With his yellow streak the duffer deserved—"

But Mayor Gaylor interrupted the harsh lawyer with a smile.

"Did you ever hear of the mother," he said, "who visited Napoleon on behalf of a son condemned to death. The emperor said the young man had twice committed the same offense, and justice demanded the forfeit of his life."

"But, sire," cried the mother, "I don't plead for justice, but for mercy."

"He does not deserve mercy," said the emperor.

"Ah, no; he does not, indeed," the mother admitted, "but it would not be mercy, sire, if he deserved it."

"Well, then," said Napoleon quietly, "I will have mercy."

Return of the Moose.

The first moose bought by the state of New York to restock the Adirondacks were liberated at Raquette Lake the middle of July, 1902. The herd consisted of two bulls and four cows. At that time moose had been extinct in the great north woods for forty years. Protected by prohibitory laws, it is believed that in due time these lovely animals again will flourish in their old-time haunts in the mountain wilderness as they did before luxuriant game laws and a succession of unusually severe winters wiped them out from the shores of the St. Lawrence to the Hudson.

Hen That Works Overtime.

A Brooklyn hen is reported, without confirmatory evidence, to have done what would appear to be rather more than her share in reduction of the high cost of living by laying four eggs in ten hours. To make the achievement still more remarkable the narrator affirms that the hen wasn't feeling very well at the time, in fact that she had been taken into the house for her health. The egg producers' union agent ought to look after this effort at overproduction.

RESEMBLE THE ANIMAL

PECULIARITY NOTED IN SOME HUMAN COUNTENANCES.

Men of the Highest Ability Have Had This Facial "Defect," Among Them the Great Scientist Charles Darwin.

The likeness of certain human types to familiar animals is a matter of common observation. Caricaturists, from the days of the Greek and Romans down, have made use of its suggestions. A noteworthy instance in comparatively recent years was that of Louis Napoleon, whose brooding, aquiline countenance was readily converted into a bird of prey—the French eagle sometimes, at other times, and even more strikingly, a vulture preying upon France.

In our daily speech we naturally describe men as rat-faced, hog-like or fox in appearance, or say of a noble-looking old man that he possesses a leonine head. Still other persons we pronounce simian in their physiognomy, and although few of us would care to merit a personal application of that adjective, it need not be so uncomplimentary as one would imagine.

The dignified and venerable Charles Darwin accepted it as applied to himself with no resentment, and with a gently humorous perception of its partial coincidence with his favorite theories; while the resemblance of Queen Paul Kruger to an ancient and exceedingly sagacious gorilla was more than once remarked.

An amusing discovery of unhuman likeness was related by a friend of Sir Henry M. Stanley. When Stanley visited the Karaguz, an African tribe rather above the average in intelligence, he had with him a fine bulldog, whose purgy and pug-nosed countenance possessed all the unlovely characteristics of the breed.

Taking Time by the Forelock.

The gentlemen in charge of the S. & A. bowling tournament are giving considerable of their time evening and Sundays in perfecting the arrangements incidental to the banquet to be held sometime during the month of April, 1913. At a recent meeting of the members committees were appointed to perfect the details and much progress has already been made. It is the consensus of opinion that the banquet should be held at Whittier's hotel, Hampton. Several automobile trucks are available to transfer the members and this means of transportation is meeting with the hearty approval of one and all. Prior to taking barges for the hotel it is planned to have a short street parade covering only the business section of the city. Red fire and candles will be much in evidence and in all probability one of the local bands will be engaged to discourage music through the line of march. The committee on badges will go to Boston next week to select some suitable emblem for the occasion.

The Herald Hears

That never before were the women so interested in politics.
That it is surprising how many of them are seen at the different rallies.
That Ezra Towle wishes to know if the campaign flag on Pleasant street has got dry yet.
That another barber shop has opened in the north end district.
That it was amusing to one gentleman in the democratic ranks on Monday night as an escort to the campaign speakers.
That this ward five heavyweight has been a democrat, a republican, a democrat again, a republican once more, a socialist, a bull mooser for a time and now a full fledged democrat.
That the gang in the water front ward are tipping their hat to him.
That the weather vane has nothing on this gent.
That there should be some specimen ballots sent along for the voters to study.
That any man who wishes to vote a split ticket this year may as well take a half day off to do it.
That the Consolidation Coal company have improved the north end district greatly as far as its property is concerned but that fence in front of the coal pocket on Market street should be used for fire-wood.
That the board of public works is really talking of filling those ponds in the asphalt.
That the Springfield Republican says: "The Guardians of Liberty, successors of the A. P. A. of unpleasant memory, are for Colonel Roosevelt as 'the least of three evils.' He may thank his stars that the indorsement is not more cordial."
That a week from today it will be all over.
That the local campaign will then come to the front.
That a Congress street business man is making a hit with his new brand of champagne.
That Portsmouth has two ministers of the Gospel on the stump for the Bull Moose party.
That the people of one church are not so very much pleased over the movement of their spiritual adviser.

RAILROAD NOTES

William E. Towner has concluded his duties with the Portsmouth Electric railroad where he was employed as a watchman at the car barn.
At the session of the New England investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission in Boston yesterday before Commissioner Charles A. Prouty, Superintendent of Transportation W. C. Kendall of the Boston and Maine in defending the road against charges that freights are unduly delayed, testified that the peculiar location of the Concord yard in its relation to the Merrimack river, presented an improvement in conditions here that would allow of better and speedier handling of shipping. Similar conditions Mr. Kendall held exist in Lowell.
Chester J. Byron, one of the oldest conductors in point of service on the Boston & Maine, is dead at Somerville. Mr. Byron was a native of Littleton. At the age of 21 he enlisted in this city in Co. J, 1st N. H. heavy artillery engaged in various occupations until mustered out one year later. He then engaged in various occupations until 1875, when he entered the train service of the Concord railroad, and was promoted to the position of conductor in 1881. His run for a part of the time was on the main line trains, and when the Concord and Montreal was consolidated with the Boston & Maine he was running between Manchester and Henniker over the North Weare road, making his home in Henniker. Following the amalgamation of the two roads he went to Boston, and until ill-health overtook him his run was to Bedford and Marlboro, making a round trip to the places named from Boston, daily. Of late he had been an assistant conductor, the change being made to lighten his work.
Regulations on railroads limiting use of excursion tickets, sold at reduced rates, to the dates shown upon their face were held by the interstate commission today to be just and reasonable. In a case against the Southern Pacific company and others, when it was shown that the buyers of tickets had used them within the time limit, but had been compelled to buy local tickets for a part of their journey, the commission held that the additional fares were exacted legally and properly.

George R. Mann a former employee of the Boston and Maine railroad and well known in this city, who keeps a small store at Woodsville, while entering his establishment recently, fell into an elevator well sustaining injuries which up to the present time he has not regained consciousness.

ADD RAILROAD NOTES

The trains the Boston and Maine purpose to run from Boston to New York out of the North station as soon as the Hampden cut off from the Central Massachusetts division to Springfield is completed ought to convenience a large section of the state and certain parts of New Hampshire. Just what they will do must, as Mr. Byrnes says he found out by actual trial.

But the very decision to establish the new service shows a disposition to accommodate the public, that is to be commended. If the trains prove to be needed so much the better.—Boston Post.
